

I feel the FCC should approve testing and implementation of the BPL system. As an Amateur radio operator (callsign AE4MH) I am aware that there may be some initial interference issues to deal with but also believe that the utilities and Amateur radio as a group should be able to work together to solve any issues as they arise. Also, the added competition in the area of broadband internet access is sure to benefit many people and I feel the benefits outweigh the potential problems.